

Dispute Resolution Policy

Sample e-commerce knowledge base document — Customer Support

1. Buyer–Seller Disputes

When a buyer and seller disagree (e.g., over item condition or delivery confirmation), the platform acts as a neutral mediator and may request evidence such as photos, tracking data, or communication logs.

2. Evidence Requirements

- Unboxing videos or photos showing the received item.
- Delivery confirmation and courier tracking history.
- Chat/order communication between buyer and seller, if any.

3. Resolution Outcomes

Depending on evidence, outcomes may include a full or partial refund, replacement item, return-and-refund, or the dispute being resolved in favor of the seller.

4. Appeals

If either party disagrees with the resolution, a formal appeal can typically be filed once, with additional evidence, for a final review by a senior case manager.
